

The Fine Art of Hanging Pictures

Curator's Choice

Plan your wall gallery before you hang it. Use craft paper cut to your frame sizes and painter's tape to arrange the cutouts on the wall until you have come up with the most pleasing design.

Evenly space the art as shown here to create a dramatic presentation of your most favourite pieces.

Mix up your frame sizes and styles to create depth and dimension in your living space.

Step by Step

Alternate the sizes of pictures in a stairwell. Group smaller pieces together to create harmony with larger ones.

Keep the spacing between frames constant to portray a professional feel.

Mirror the rise of the staircase you're hanging your art above to establish the perfect placement for each frame.

Art on the edge

Take your most striking pieces and place them on the ledge, showcasing your favourite to guests.

A collection of small pictures set to one side can be offset by placing a larger piece on the other.

Overlap pictures of different sizes to create a multi-dimensional effect.
